Eat Shop Offers Free Coffee—Doughnuts

The Eat Shop, Grenada's new, spick and span food dispensary, will have its formal opening Thursday and Friday.

The place is under the management of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Stubbs, who are being ably assisted by Mr. Skoot Fudgey. It is located in a room adjoining Leon Geeslin's Waco Pop Filling Station and Mr. Geeslin has joined in with them in making special offerings to those who visit that place during the days set aside for the formal opening, Thursday and Friday.

During certain hours, the Eat Shop will serve coffee and doughnuts free to their visitors, and all during the opening days some of the sandwiches will be served two for a nickel, others for a nickel, and the highest price for any sandwich will be ten cents.

Mr. Geeslin has offered various inducements, including the giving of a 100 gallons of gasoline, divided between 100 of the visitors on these two days.

Grenadians will no doubt, visit Mr. and Mrs. Stubbsfield and wish them well in their new enterprise.

ICE MEN TO MEET HERE

The members of the Delta State Ice Association will hold a regional meeting in the local Community House at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night.

A small luncheon will be served the undermentioned number in attendance; afterwards a discussion probably concerning the improvement of ice plants and increased ice distribution will get under way.

Mr. H. L. Honeycutt, local ice plant owner and regional director, states that there will be no definite number attending the meeting because a number of them are undecided as to whether or not their business will permit them to attend, but he expects a large crowd.

Every member will contribute his or her advice during the different discussions and a few will have certain topics of which they will speak. Mr. Honeycutt will act as master of ceremonies.

ATTEND KIMZEY FUNERAL

Those attending the funeral of the late Mrs. T. M. Kimzey, Monday afternoon were: Mesdames W. O. Geeslin, E. C. Hayward, Harry Burkley, A. N. Rayburn, Ida Campbell, Mr. J. D. Crenshaw, Mr. and Mrs. James Bell and Mr. R. P. Rodgers.

Funeral and interment was at Water Valley. Mrs. Kimzey, before moving to Water Valley, had resided in Grenada for a great many years.

Stage Coach Going To Fair

Concord, N. H. — A century and a quarter old four horse stage coach built here by Abbott Downing will be exhibited at the New York World's Fair. It has been freshly painted and the panel designs are new, but the wheels and the springs are the same.

GRENADA IS THE WINNER

(By Pete Lambert)

Paced by the long-distance hitting of Jack Hudson and the brilliant pitching of E. R. Smith the Grenada High baseball nine defeated the Paynes team 13 to 4 in a game marked by plenty of errors.

Smith was in trouble more than once but seemed to have the reserve speed and control to pull him through on every occasion. He allowed but two hits and four runs during the six and two-thirds innings he pitched and would have had a shut out to his credit but for numerous errors.

Preagrove, the Paynes hurler, wasn't any to bad. Given rotten support by his team mates he allowed but seven hits, struck out eight, and collected for a two-base hit at bat.

This was "Flash" Hudson's day at the plate. He collected a single and a home run out of four attempts, and hit another line drive which would have been his second homer of the day if he had hit it a foot wider to the left or right as it happened the Paynes' second baseman let the ball slip through his legs and it rolled on across the street. Hudson touched all the bags on a home run error.

Hudson's four-base blow came in the third inning and Bedford Thompson stepped up to the plate in the fifth and poled one out into deep left-center field that was good for four bases. Murphy collected a double out of three times at bat.

Both teams made errors, plenty of them, but the most boneheaded one was made by the umpire. In the seventh and final inning Paynes had men on fifth and second with two out, the man on second tried to steal third and Murphy threw him out by five feet but the umpire had the nerve to be looking in the opposite direction. Naturally the man had to be called safe.

The game was shortened to seven innings by agreement of both coaches.

Birds Store Olives

Bangor, Cal. — This year's crop of woodpeckers and robins are robbing the olive orchards and storing the olives on holes in fence posts. Olives, when dry, lose their bitterness, and become highly edible.

Blow Knocks Out 9 Teeth

Los Angeles, Cal. — Jamel Abraham, 12, is fully convinced of the mythical influence of numbers. While playing on the Woods School baseball nine, he got hit with a bat and lost nine teeth.

Firemen Dam Ditch

Montour Falls, N. Y. — Hampered by lack of water, firemen dammed up rainwater in a ditch nearby and used it to battle a fire which destroyed a farmhouse near here.

MEMEL FALLS TO HITLER'S FORCES

KAUNAS, Lithuania — Lithuania surrendered the Memel territory to Nazi Germany today under an implied ultimatum and the entire country was placed under temporary martial law as a means of ensuring national order.

The proclamation on martial law, under a national state of emergency, was issued a few hours after the announcement this morning that Lithuania had been compelled to surrender the Memel area.

A Lithuanian delegation was scheduled to leave for Berlin today to work out details on the surrender.

The radio station began broadcasts in German at noon.

Victor Gaullis, Lithuanian governor of Memel territory,

Italy Summons the Old Army Men

ROME — Premier Benito Mussolini is speeding up his preparedness by calling more army reservists and technicians to the colors, it was said today in an authoritative quarter.

As the statement was made, the fascist grand council, supreme body of the fascist hierarchy, announced complete adherence to the Berlin-Rome arms and denounced efforts to form a "Stop Hitler" bloc of nations.

Mussolini was preparing to make an important speech Sunday incident to the celebration of the anniversary of Fascism. He was expected then to outline his "aspirations" at France's expense.

As regards preparedness, usually reliable informants said that those reservists of the army classes of 1901, 1902, 1903 and possibly 1904 who had been exempted from previous calls were made in the last few months had now been summoned to military headquarters and to nearly all cases ordered to report to their barracks by tomorrow midnight.

Exemptions from army calls had been made previously when reservists had families to support, or when they had steady jobs. But it was understood that this week exemptions had been few and that those granted were based not on families or employment but on illness.

Authoritative circles said that the new call was merely part of the campaign, already announced, to insure that Italy is prepared for any defense emergency.

It was pointed out that blue lights were being installed along thoroughfares in all large cities, including Rome, in preparations for large scale "black out" drills during which cities would be darkened as part of air alarm tests.

Cleveland, O. — Harold H. Burton, mayor of Cleveland, has predicted that the city will reach the 2,000,000 population mark by 1965. Recent census estimates show 1,250,000 persons in Greater Cleveland, and 925,000 exclusive of 43 suburbs.

in a proclamation to Lithuanians, urged them to preserve strict order, not to disturb friendly relations with Germany and to permit the Lithuanian government to reach decisions calmly.

Gaullis said he expected all officials and civil servants here to remain at their posts and continue their duties. He said that properties of all citizens would be protected.

As news of the surrender spread Nazis quickly donned their uniforms, previously forbidden, and thousands of Memellanders surged into the streets rejoicing at the prospect of their return to German nationality.

Columns of Hitler youth marched through the streets singing Nazi songs.

LONDON TRIES TO ORGANIZE "STOP" FORCES

LONDON — Negotiations for a British-French - Russian - Polish declaration against German aggression were put on an urgent basis today as the news flashed to European capitals that Adolf Hitler had forced Lithuania to surrender the Memel territory.

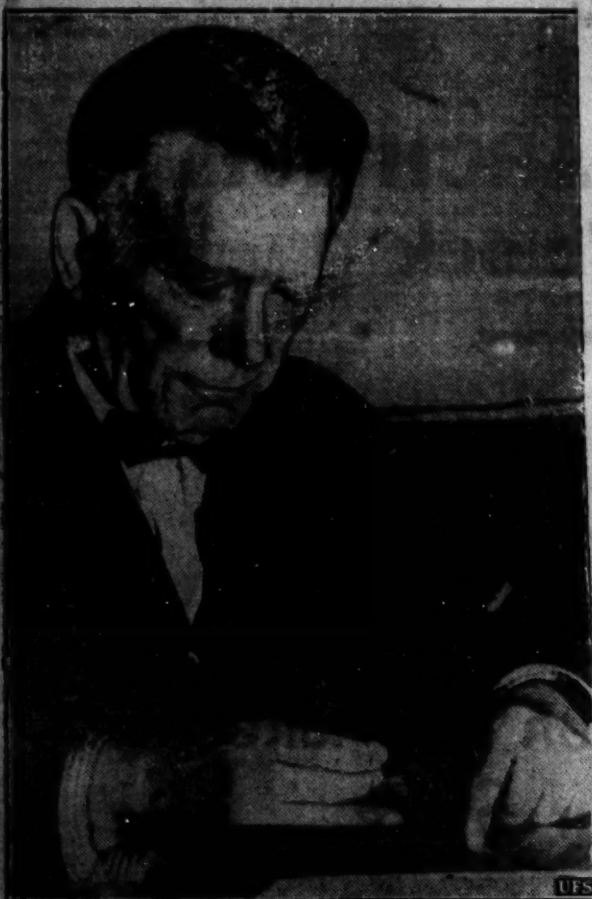

In diplomatic quarters, the question already was asked whether Hitler would stop now, even for a brief time, whether he would proceed to put Lithuania under his "protection," or even attempt to regain sovereignty of the Danzig area, under Polish and tying between Germany proper and east Prussia.

Britain and France were agreed on the necessity for an immediate four power "Stop Hitler" declaration, leaving the way open for adherence of five other powers, if they would join with Britain, France, Russia and Poland.

Turkey, it was learned, already had pledged its support, Jugoslavia, lying dangerously between Nazi Germany and fascist Italy, held back, negotiations were proceeding with Rumania, Bulgaria and Greece.

The British and French governments were ready at any hour to join in a declaration providing for "immediate consultation in the event of further political aggression" by Germany—not waiting.

Greed, The Father Of Woe

One word signifies the woe which the world faces in perhaps its greatest crisis. That word is greed.

Communities are hampered by the same monster, which so often finds his fortification in the breast of those whom the public might honor—even bow to as business successes.

Commercial activities are some times attacked, invaded, annexed and intimidated into submission to the ambitious, just as Hitler and the other dictators ruthlessly subdue weak nations.

In both instances the germ from which the menace spreads is the same—greed.

What other excuse could the ruler of 75,000,000 people give for the slavery of millions more?

How can a man, who has grown rich in a community, through one line of endeavor, and, then invades other lines of business—one after another—to their detriment and to his advantage, give a reason except—greed—the type that would filch bread from the mouths of the hungry, educational opportunities from those who might be able to serve the world unselfishly, and humble the lives of other unselfish people?

It must be agreed that the time has come to stop Hitler.

Then would it not naturally follow that the time has come to smite greed mongers? For after all it can only be said, logically, 'tis greed that has made Hitler bad, and greed in the hand of another—used as badly—is as bad as Hitler.

Grenada will perhaps have less woe, when the masters of big and useful business enterprises, see fit, to "render unto the small operators, that which is the small operator's."

Vacation Urged On Health Base

CHICAGO — A plan for making the 35,000,000 travel vacations enjoyed annually by Americans, a quest for health instead of just a sightseeing tour, has been presented in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Pointing out that the "incredible but carefully estimated sum of $5,000,000,000 is spent yearly on vacation migrations," Dr. Charles I. Singer, Long Beach, N. Y., said these vacations "lack conscious, well organized purpose and are governed mostly by vagaries, whims and fads."

Dr. Singer also believes the instinctive motivating factor of these mass migrations is a drive for climatic change.

"America is fortunate to find within its boundaries an array of specific climatic types, from Nordic to subtropical, high altitudes and deserts," he said.

Dr. Singer divided the benefits of change of climate into "climatic sedation" and "climatic stimulation."

"Climatic sedation," he said, "is escape from the hardship, of winter, a good, protective, therapeutic measure."

Exposure to a stimulating climate, according to Dr. Singer, "causes marked and typical fluctuations in the blood cell count."

He said the English long have understood the value of the health vacation and have utilized their resorts for health purposes more extensively than Americans.

He recommended closer cooperation between doctor and patient in working out "an individually planned vacation, modeled to personal requirements." Careful planning of the hygienic aspects of the vacation migrations will result in reductions in epidemics, he said.

GROW A GARDEN

Grow a garden. Vegetables furnish phosphorus and calcium for building bones, iron to make rich healthy blood, vitamins to promote growth and protect health.

Gardens and truck patches should be the richest and best worked areas on the farm and should grow a crop twelve months during the year. A good garden properly planned to meet the family needs, well fertilized and thoroughly worked will out the grocery bill at least in half. It is an easy matter to produce $100 to $300 of food in a year's time on one-half acre of good soil.

Make the garden soil rich. Apply rotted barnyard manure at the rate of 10 to 15 tons per acre. Use a complete, high analysis fertilizer such as 6-8-8 or 4-8-8 at the rate of 1,000 to 1,500 pounds per acre.

Plant all different kinds of vegetables, the family likes. Make successive plantings so that when one crop is gone another will be ready.

For example, eight plantings of snap beans are possible, these plantings being made every two weeks, from the time danger of frost has passed until the first of September. The large plantings should be made during late March or April because conditions are more favorable for bean production during the ten to twelve weeks of spring and early summer.

Likewise, seven plantings of sweet corn made be made every two weeks from early spring until the middle of July. Both a spring and fall crop of Irish potatoes and tomatoes can be grown. In fact, the well managed, successfully-planted clean cultivated garden will furnish crisp, wholesome vegetables almost every day in the year and supply surplus for canning.

County farm and home agents will be glad to supply farmers with a copy of the extension garden calendar, which gives a list of the best varieties and best planting dates.

RAISE POULTRY

Eggs are not only one of the most nourishing of all foods but are essential in preparing many delicious dishes. Old fashioned egg custard, for example, is a delicacy every farm family can enjoy. Broiled chicken, fried chicken and chicken pie are within the reach of every farm family with a little industry and enterprise.

Each farm family should have a small poultry flock to produce chickens and eggs for the family. Chickens need clean quarters, clean grounds, and an abundance of green feed, a balanced grain ration shade in the summer and plenty of clean water at all times.

Provide the hens with a scratch grain, laying mash, and oyster shell. Practice rigid sanitation to prevent diseases and infestation with parasites. Remove brooding hens first day. Confine the birds during bad weather. Replace at least 60 per cent of one-year old birds each year. County farm and home demonstration agents can furnish bulletins which give information on housing, breeding and brooding, feeding and sanitation.

For one year a laying hen needs about one-half bushel of corn, a peck of wheat, pasture of other green feed in addition to laying mash.

NEEDLE IN SEVEN YEARS TRAVELS THROUGH FOOT

RED HILL, Pa. — It required seven years for a needle point to travel "one foot."

The foot was that of James L. Wood, Red Hill farmer. He stepped on a needle seven years ago. The point penetrated the big toe of his right foot and broke, leaving a half inch of steel in the flesh.

Wood forgot about the accident. Recently, his right heel became sore and he consulted a physician. The latter made a small incision at the sore spot and extracted the needle point, explaining that it probably had traveled from the toe, across the top of the foot, and into the heel.

"Use Tax Law"

Invoked Today

JACKSON, Miss. — A "use tax law" was invoked today to end seven years of fraud and evasion of the nation's first sales tax law.

The State Tax Commission was authorized to examine books and records of banks, manufacturers, jobbers and wholesalers in order to find dealers trying to avoid payment of the two per cent levy.

The Commission said that preliminary examinations had disclosed hundreds of merchants who had kept no records, falsified books, or kept two sets and, in general, made it "difficult or impossible to determine the exact amount of tax liability."

The investigation also showed that wholesalers had informed retailers when their books were to be audited by the commission. In other instances, the wholesalers promised merchants that the commission could get no evidence from them and also warned them not to shy from concerns cooperating with tax officials.

Most merchants, the commission said, paid their taxes, but others would receive the "maximum penalty."

Wayside News

So sorry that we have a large number in our community with the flu. Truly hope they will soon recover.

Bro. John Fields who now works in a WPA office in Tupelo is a visitor for a few days with relatives and friends.

We are also very sorry that Miss Farlee Sullivan one of our lunch room workers is in the Water Valley hospital. She is to be operated on Tuesday for a colic.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Tribble and daughter Julia Faye of near Water Valley were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. John Tribble Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Sylvie have as their guest Mr. Loyd's sister of Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren Shaw and two sons of near Coffeeville were Sunday afternoon and Monday guests in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. John Tribble and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Tribble.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tribble and daughter Carline and son G. L. ghter, Linda, and Vera, grand-attended an amateur contest at Charleston Friday night.

G. L. and the Charleston gang composed of Jimmie Bhasler, the fiddle player and the two Cole sisters won second prize which was $2.50.

Twentieth Century Club

The lovely and spacious home of Mrs. Henry Ray was the meeting place of the Twentieth Century Club Tuesday, March 14. Mrs. R. F. Matthews was the hostess. The guest list included Mesdames Geo. Granberry, W. E. Jackson, Lewis Dubard, Jr., and Misses Lucile Owens, Mary Hall and Betty White Middleton.

The program was on Municipal Government, the quotation being "Government is a trust, and officers of the Government are trustees—both are created for the benefit of the people." The first paper was given by Mrs. E. B. Provine on "Why Do They Let Us Run It?" written by Frank R. Kent. Miss Lucile Owen reviewed the book, "Our Town" written by Thornton Wilder. Miss Owen saw the three act play while in New York last summer and brought to the club a very vivid picture of its characters. Mrs. W. B. Waterman gave a short discussion of the New York World's Fair.

The club regretfully accepted the resignation of two valued members, Mrs. C. A. Parks, who has moved to Corinth and Mrs. Hurd Horton.

Twenty members responded to roll call. Fruit salad, crackers, salted nuts and coffee was served at the conclusion of the program.

Rev. and Mrs. T. B. Thrower and children, Tinsley E. Jr., Binger and Mary Ann, have just moved into the Methodist parsonage. Mrs. Thrower, who has been at the bedside of her sister, Mrs. W. G. Burgin, of West Point, who is in the Methodist Hospital in Memphis, arrived this afternoon to spend the week-end here. We are glad to report she is improving.

SPECIAL X-RAY PERMITS MORE PRECISE PICTURES

LONDON — A new type of X-ray apparatus, called the Tomograph, is being used to treat old war wounds, at Queen Mary's hospital.

The machine is unique in that its rays will focus on a section of the body at any depth from the surface and photograph it leaving out anything above and below.

It not only reveals the presence of a bullet or piece of shrapnel, but the condition of the surrounding tissues. The knowledge of whether a foreign object lies clean or in a hidden sinus is extremely important in operating technique.

LOST QUARTER FOUND AFTER 38-YEAR LAPSE MIDDLESBORO, Ky. — Kelly Harrell, 66, has an 86-year-old quarter today he believes he lost about 38 years ago.

Kelly Harrell recovered the coin through the efforts of his nephew, Glenn Yoakum, an employee of the Claiborne County Bank at Tazewell, Tenn. The quarter was identified by a "K" which Harrell had marked on it when his father gave it to him in 1875.

Egg Preservation Home Storage Eggs

By Lottie Wood, H. D. Agent Every farm home should store some eggs in Spring time, when they are plentiful and cheap, for winter use, when they are scarce and high in price. Eggs spoil because the water evaporates thru the porous shell, and bacteria enter into them in the same way. In order to prevent this, the shell must be coated over with some substance to prevent evaporation. (Eggs are commercially kept in cold storage, where bacteria cannot develop.)

Some simple methods of preserving eggs at home are: Greasing the shell with lard or vaseline; packing closely in fine salt or sawdust; placing in lime water, as the lime forms a coat on the shell; and packing in water-glass (sodium silicate), a syrup-like liquid, which can be bought at a drug store. The last method is the safest.

1 gallon boiled water.
1/10 gallon water-glass.
2 or 3 gallon earthenware churn or crock, sterilized by hand spoon.

Mix the water - glass, with the water which has been boiled and cooled. Put the mixture in churn or crock which has been sterilized. Use a long handled spoon, which has been sterilized, to put the eggs into the solution. Use only clean, freshly laid eggs free from cracks.

Infertile eggs are best. They may be added from day to day. Care must be taken that the eggs are always well covered with the solution. If the solution gets low, a fresh supply may be added. Keep the jar closely covered to prevent evaporation, and in a cool, dark place. Use the eggs in the same way as fresh ones.

Conduct Course For Reserve Officers

NEW ORLEANS, La. — At the request of the United States War Department, Tulane University's school of medicine will conduct an "inactive duty course of instruction" for medical reserve officers of the 4th corps area of the army and navy, April 11-15, Dr. C. C. Bass, dean of the school, announced today.

Under the supervision of Dr. H. W. Kostmayer, director of graduate medical studies at Tulane, the combined professional post-graduate course and conference on medical military problems is designed to assist in the development of a better trained medical reserve personnel, Dean Bass said.

The course will enable army doctors, to keep abreast of the profession, and at the same time become familiar with the responsibilities that would develop upon them in the event of a national emergency, he said.

Officers of the regular army will lecture on medico-military subjects and Tulane faculty doctors will conduct other phases of the program. The training will be on an inactive status and enrollment is open to all reserve officers of the medical department; of the army and navy and to medical officers of the national guard. Inactive duty credit will be given for each day of attendance. Application should be made by letter to the commanding general of the area. Post Office building, Atlanta, Ga. No fee will be charged.

Rumanian Is Marked For Hitler

LONDON — Today the news reached official quarters that in the last three of four days Dr. Hellmuth Wohlthat, chief of a German economic mission sent to Bucharest, presented the following proposal to the Rumanian government in the name of Nazi Germany:

1. That Rumania gradually cease all efforts to build up her national industry, gradually close down existing factories, and thus make herself an agricultural country only.

2. That Rumania's export of grain, oil, lumber, cattle and foodstuffs, all vital to German economy, go only to Germany.

3. That if Rumania agreed to these terms Germany was ready to guarantee Rumania's territorial integrity and independence.

King Carol and his government at once rejected the proposals completely and moved to include all political leaders, including Dr.

YACHTSMAN'S HOLIDAY
By Ruth Dewey Groves

George Van Buskirk, Jr., rich and bored, slips away from his yacht in the Hudson River, with his friend Conrad Phelps and, for a lark, they join department store picnickers at Newburgh. George presumably is engaged to Audrey Hampton, but longs to find a girl who knows or cares nothing for his wealth. Calling themselves George Bush and Con Palmer, they meet Mary Hale and Trize Anderson, salesgirls. During the picnic George is attracted to Mary, while Con and Trize pair off. After seeing the girls home, George admits his liking for Mary but Con tells him to forget her and remember his station in life. As George arrives at the Van Buskirk penthouse, he is met by the one person he doesn't want to see.

CHAPTER IV
AS GEORGE entered the penthouse apartment where he lived with his parents, he was "isconcerted to Audrey interrupted. "Tell me, darling, is there another girl?" "No more than you can tell me that there is another man, Audrey, or that there isn't."

"Perfect! Your answer couldn't have been any better. But listen, George, this visit tonight was mother's idea—not mine. I suspected you'd not want to leave the yacht, and I told her so. But she would not believe it. You were on the yacht, weren't you?"

"Yes, of course. We took a run up the river." Audrey was satisfied with the explanation, but George felt an urge to tell her the whole story to tell her of the girl he had met. He suspected that Audrey would not mind, but you never could tell about a woman. Rivalry, might make a difference. It was best, he decided, not to tell her.

As he escorted her to the door, he gave her a promise that he'd telephone very soon.

"Please do," Audrey said in a dulcet tone. "Then I'll believe that you were on your yacht all day!"

"I want to try an experiment. . . . It means more to me than anything else in my life before."

some face to face with Audrey and her mother, who were leaving.

"Hello, hello!" he said cheerily, as if he were really glad to see them. "You're not leaving, are you?"

Mrs. Hampton stared at him. He had suddenly remembered that he had been expected home to dinner this evening, for the express purpose of entertaining Audrey.

"Yes, we're leaving," Mrs. Hampton replied icily. Then to Audrey, "I'll run along, and wait for you in the car. You probably want to talk to George."

Without waiting for an answer, she disappeared through the door that the Van Buskirk butler had already opened for her.

Audrey and George were left alone.

"Audrey," George said, "how long must we continue this farce? Let's break our families."

"I know — our families," in this morning, he was up early. His mind was obsessed with Mary and his burning desire to know her as she really was. During the night he had evolved a plan to turn his prospective visit to the yacht with her into a test of her character. His plan would call for the assistance of a friend — and he knew just the man!

He found him at the club where he had his residence. Reggie de Fuyter was a late riser, who threatened to have his man throw George out head first for disturbing him before noon.

"But Reg, this is important," George insisted. "If you don't believe me, look at these!" He held out a sheaf of papers, and flicked them under Reggie's nose.

"My IOUs," Reggie moaned. "I'll compromise," George announced. "I'll let you pay them my way."

"That sounds awfully shy- loctian, but let's have it."

"Attahoy. If you showed as much sense at bridge I wouldn't name you in my wicked trap. Here's the dope: I want to try an experiment and I need your aid. I'm very much in earnest about it. As a matter of fact, it means more to me than anything else in my life before. That ought to give you some drift. It's a girl."

"I thought you were imaginary, and that only such weaklings as I ever fell for a femme."

"I'm falling for an ideal. It's this girl is it. I'll be the happiest man in the world—maybe."

"What's the maybe for?" "Maybe she'll feel the same about me, and maybe she won't."

"As the jacksaw would say, 'Haw-haw!' With your money."

"That's just it," George interrupted explosively. "My money! It's not my money I want her to care for—it's me. She doesn't know who I am and before she does find out, I've got to know if in someone as lovely as she, there can be a soul above acquisition, above yearning for butlers and timorous and seasons on the Riviera and yachts. I want to know whether a girl beautiful enough to marry for money would decline the opportunity. That's where you come in."

"Yes? But with everything so beautifully dark I can't see the entrance."

"I'll explain. Relax, and listen. You are to pose as a rich young man, a young man richer than you ever were, if I may say so. Socially, of course, you're tops, but it's not a social register name I want to try on her. It's money. So you have got to be somebody else."

REGGIE began to smile. "But my dear fellow. Once in possession of my IOUs I shall be right again."

"Not rich enough. You couldn't quite buy a yacht with them—such as To Kalon, for instance."

"Your own little tub, what?" "You're getting hot. My own little million-dollar tub, my car—that makes yours look like a lemon—my publicly estimated net—$600, thanks to Dad for taking me in with him—and all the glare and excitement that go with them. Do you get it now?"

"My head is spinning. Am I to be George Van Buskirk?"

"A good guess. Too bad you aren't always so clever."

"And for this I get back my IOUs? Just for pretending to be you?"

"For pretending the way I want you to be. You'll have to offer all those things to this girl. I mean, take her out on dates, let her know how the other half lives, give her a taste of luxury."

"Am I to propose marriage to her? She might fall in love with me and take me up, with a pure and innocent disregard for the millions."

"The offense intended, but don't think love will enter into it."

"Oh, so she's in love with you?" "You don't expect me to suggest that, do you? I could love her, but she is what I hope she is. And if she is, I'll turn the world upside down to win her."

"How does it happen she doesn't know who you are?" Reggie asked.

GEORGE explained the meeting at the picnic.

"When do I meet her and start our little deception?" Reggie wanted to know.

"Next Sunday, on my yacht—or rather, what will now be your yacht," said George. "Con pretended he knew a number of the crew, and would arrange to take the girls aboard. We'll take them next Sunday — and then, at the critical moment, you the owner will unexpectedly appear."

George gave Reggie further instructions, and then departed, feeling very pleased with his plan.

Billups May Get Aid For Life Saving Signal

Grenadians, who are familiar with the crossing signal invented by Alonzo Billups, insist on its being given a trial at the Highway 7 crossing, north of Grenada, not only because they wish to see their fellow citizen succeed, but because they feel assured that it would contribute to the saving of lives—the noblest thing that anyone can do, or be influential in having done.

After years of hard effort, Mr. Billups and his friends, who aid for philanthropic reasons, have to some extent broken through the icy barrier that one must witness when they encounter any corporation of the magnitude of the Illinois Central System. Railroad authorities have agreed to maintain the signal after it is erected, and have given permission for installation on the right-of-way.

This being accomplished, advocates who are thoroughly sold on its worthiness, have by strong petitions, approximately 600, turned to the highway department for financial aid for the first installation.

The Honorable Abe Linker, Commissioner from this district, is well-known for his aptness to given consideration to any worthy problem. Much more, his love for his fellow man's welfare and safety—one of his marked tributes—can be very much relied on to secure a most attentive ear for a presentation of the merits of the Billups signal.

The signal itself—cannot fail to attract attention in the isolated places where the most dangerous grade crossings are found. It stands out far more perceptible and impressive than the rays of a lover's moon on a dark and dismal night when the motorists speed along the countryside and clearly shows when a train is approaching—warning Death—with the most modern lighting effect, neon tubing.

It is sound psychology—and a study of this treatise on the behavior of human beings is the background of all education—that no person would fail to read a neon sign, which is placed away from the competition of the multiplicity of signs in the cities. And, by the way, these signs which literally deluge cities, in spite of the competition of hundreds of them, are drawing persons into places, and adding to the work of cash registers—why should they not, at the non-competitive sign points of grade crossings, draw people away from Death?

The highway commission has been courteous to Mr. Billups, he says. However the matter of installation, happens to come in the old class of things, where it is possible, and sometimes deemed expedient to "pass the buck." Billups, like all other inventors, has ridden this merry-go-round a time or two. He is not down-hearted because he knows that Fulton, Whitney, Bell, Marconi, Edison and others met rebuffs. Edison was even fired by a telegraph company for inventing, while on duty, what was later found to be one of its most needed devices.

Under present mode of operation, the railroad company gets assistance for grade crossing protection from the United States Bureau of public roads, they therefore hesitate to foot the bill.

On the other hand, the Bureau of Public Roads will not install a signal which has not been tried—they refuse to make the initial installation, reliable information indicates.

The State Highway Department has, in turn, approved the Billups Signal, but has not made an appropriation for a test installation.

The bureau of public roads has planned, however, to spend considerable sums on erection of crossing protection, with devices that have proven their worth.

So Mr. Billups will find himself, it seems, with more moral support than one could wish for, and with every element of logic on the side of the worthiness of his signal which leads the wayfarer person into the path of longer living—still up against the embarrassing problem of how to finance a test installation.

A drawing of the device is reproduced elsewhere in this issue. While this drawing strongly indicates the eye appeal of Mr. Billups' sign, it cannot illustrate the power of a screaming siren which adds to the impression of the eye, the ability of the ear to sense danger.

PEACH SPRAYING ADVISED

Grenada, Miss., March 20.—As most peach trees are now in bloom, Mr. N. L. Douglass, State Plant Board Inspector at Grenada is reminding orchardists that a spray should be applied when three-fourths of the petals have fallen so as to prevent wormy peaches this year. The spray recommended consists of one pound powdered lead arsenate in fifty gallons of water to which has been added four pounds of hydrated lime to prevent any burning by the lead arsenate. Another spraying with the same mixture is advised about two weeks later, or ten days after all the petals have fallen. A third spray about two weeks after the second consists of self-boiled lime-sulphur or a good substitute such as wettable sulphur. This spray is to prevent brown rot, and with the addition of a pound of lead arsenate to each fifty gallons is repeated about four weeks before the fruit is due to ripen.

Spray schedules for the control of insects and diseases of peaches and other fruits as well as lists of dealers in spray supplies may be secured from the State Plant Board at State College.

CHURCH PEWS FORMERLY

ATTACHED FOR JUDGMENT

BOSTON — Even church pews could be attached a century ago, the Historical Records Survey of the WPA reports.

Back in 1486, a pew in the First Universalist Society, on Hanover Street, was attached to satisfy a claim brought against a member of the congregation.

The attachment was discovered on the back of a writ found in the manuscript collection of the Universalist Historical Society at Tufts College.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS ANNOUNCED

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations for the positions named below. Applications must be on file not later than April 17 if received from States east of Colorado, and not later than April 20 if received from Colorado and States westward.

Associate health education specialist, $3,200, assistant health education specialist, $2,600 a year. United States Public Health Service. Applicants for the associate grade must not have passed their 45th, and applicants for the assistant grade must not have passed their 40th birthday.

Aerologist, $3,800 a year. Air Safety Board, Civil Aeronautics Authority. Except for certain substitutions, a 4-year college course with major study in meteorology, engineering, or physics, and professional experience in aeronautical meteorology, are required. Applicants must not have passed their 53d birthday.

Full information may be obtained from E. R. Proudfoot, Secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Board of Examiners, at the post office or customhouse in this city, or from the Secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Board of Examiners at any first or second-class post office.

MANY COMPLAIN OF ROACHES

Grenada, Miss., March 20.—With the advent of warm weather, many complaints of roaches are being received by N. L. Douglass, State Plant Board Inspector at Grenada. The control measure advised for these pests consists of sodium fluoride or sodium fluosilicate dust in cracks, along sinks, and in other places frequented by them. The roaches walk through the poisonous powder and are killed when they clean their feet by drawing them through the mouth.

Splendid results have been secured in all cases where this method has been used for several consecutive nights. Care should be taken that the sodium fluoride does not get into any food as it is poisonous. More information about the control of cockroaches and other household pests may be secured from the State Plant Board, State College, Mississippi.

DON'T TRY TO TREAT COUGHS WITH HOME-MADE REMEDIES

Coughs Are Danger Signs, Treat Them Accordingly

If you are suffering with a cough of long-standing, and do not know its cause, go to your doctor immediately. You might have a serious ailment. Even coughs due to cold or exposure often lead to serious complications by breaking down your resistance. For the latter type cough there is a medicine, compounded by a great scientist, fortified with both Vitamins "A" and "D," given to the world by a great laboratory and sold by leading druggists under the name of Menthomulson, at an all-time low price of 75c.

Although home remedies are sometimes effective, many of them have been proven merely superstition, so why take chances, when Menthomulson is sold under an iron-clad guarantee of satisfaction or your money back by good druggists everywhere.—adv.

Carpenter In Sheriff's Race

Clayton Carpenter authorized his announcement today for Sheriff of Grenada county, subject to the will of the voters in the August primary.

The son of the late Sheriff John Ed Carpenter, the aspirant was born, reared, and has spent all of his life within the confines of Grenada county, except five years that he was associated with the H. J. Heinz Company, during which time he maintained Grenada county as his place of residence.

He was educated at Gore Springs, Mississippi Heights Academy at Blue Mountain, and Mississippi College, Clinton.

He became familiar with routine of the sheriff's office, and the technique of a peace officer's work, during the time his father was sheriff, 1932 to 1936.

Considerable business experience was also gained by the youth in connection with his father's extensive farm and lumber interests and his association with the Heinz Company, a nationally known packer of food products. At present he is operating the Carpenter plantation in Beat Two.

He is a man of splendid personality, kind, considerate, firm, and honorable in his dealings and manner.

In making his announcement, he said: "Regardless of what my personal opinion may be, so long as the temperance laws remain on the books, I will endeavor to enforce them."

"It will be my aim, in the enforcement of all laws, to temper justice with mercy."

The Star asks a fair and impartial consideration of his candidacy.

Three Sure Ways to Cut CAR EXPENSE

- 1. SAVE ON BILLS AND LOSSES CAUSED BY CARBON DEPOSITS
(Lion Naturalube Actually REMOVES Hard Carbon)
- 2. SAVE ON REPAIR BILLS CAUSED BY EXCESSIVE WEAR
(Lion Naturalube Has Stronger Natural Protective Film)
- 3. SAVE ON GASOLINE BILLS
(Lion Knix-Knox Gives More Miles Per Dollar)

HOW NATURALUBE SAVES BY REMOVING CARBON AND PREVENTING EXCESSIVE WEAR . . .

Lion Naturalube, the new-type motor oil, brings you the perfect combination for cutting car expense: (1) the ability to remove hard carbon deposits from pistons, rings, valves, and spark plugs—(2) a stronger natural protective film. Unlike oils of other types, Naturalube does not cause power-loss and excessive gasoline consumption by forming hard carbon deposits. Because of its ability to remove hard carbon deposits, Naturalube restores power, reduces gasoline consumption and saves the cost of carbon removal jobs. Another important money-saving feature is Naturalube's stronger, natural protective film which prevents excessive friction wear—the chief cause of expensive repairs.

HOW KNIX-KNOX GASOLINE SAVES BY GIVING GREATER MILEAGE . . .

Lion's high-vacuum, precision controlled refining process removes all low-mileage elements. Every drop of Knix-Knox yields mileage. Knix-Knox gives more miles yet costs no more than ordinary gasoline.

LION DEALERS WILL HELP YOU CUT CAR EXPENSE

Friendly, courteous Lion dealers are eager to help you cut car expense. Drive to a Lion dealer . . . and start saving.

LONDON TRIES TO

Russia wanted the declaration made firmer and to put in it at first an intimation that the four powers would consider military action against Germany.

Poland, clearly alarmed, wanted a military agreement instead of a mere consultative declaration. As regards Memel, there was nothing that the British government could do. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, had made it plain that they could not oppose the absorption into Germany of areas which were German people.

Hitler had acted promptly on promptly on these declarations and had taken Memel.

Despite denials it was reported that Germany had given Lithuania a real ultimatum.

Rosebloom News

Farmers are real busy now since the pretty spring days have appeared Mr. George Lane was first to plant corn.
